

ABSTRACT

An apparatus and method for viewing information from a mobile station in a vehicle is disclosed. Generally, a display module is configured to be installed in a vehicle and to link with the mobile station to display information from the mobile station. A control module is coupled to the display module and configured to enable the display of the information from the mobile station.